As if God does not see, know or as if God will not respond (Ezekiel 8)

¹² Then He said to me, “Son of man, have you seen what thedo in the dark, every man in the chambers of his images? For they say, ‘The LORD does not see us. The LORD has forsaken the land.’” ¹³ He also said to me, “Yet again you shall see greater abominations that they do.”

¹⁴ Then He brought me to the door of the gate of the house of the LORD which was toward the north. And women sat there weeping for Tammuz. ¹⁵ Then He said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Yet again you shall see greater abominations than these.”

¹⁶ He brought me into the inner court of the house of the LORD, and at the door of the temple of the LORD, between the porch and the altar, were about twenty-five men with their backs toward the temple of the LORD and their faces toward the east. And they worshipped the sun toward the east.

¹⁷ Then He said to me, “Have you seen this, O son of man? Is it a light thing to the house of Judah that they commit the abominations which they commit here? For they have filled the land with violence and have continually provoked Me to anger. And they put the branch to their nose. ¹⁸ Therefore I will indeed deal in fury. My eye shall not spare, nor will I have pity. And though they cry in My ears with a loud voice, yet I will not listen to them.” Ez 8 and poured out innocent blood, even the blood of their sons and of their daughters,

whom they sacrificed to the idols of Canaan, and the land was polluted with blood. Psalm 106:38

The pictures of that first satanic memory haunted me day and night. I couldn't get them out of my head. When I met Joanna again she suggested I get them on paper by drawing them. With all of the talent of a four year old, I drew the images looping through my brain until they stopped. There was no way to capture the fear with crayons. There was no way to make sense of the black hooded figures, the blood, or the rape. But I was finally able to put the images down and let them go

Memories of being taken to strange places for rituals complicated my understanding of the various affiliations and organizations with which my family was connected. How could so many people be involved and yet it seems no one knows? My mother took me to a Catholic monastery where nuns walked the halls in black gowns and white head coverings. I could hear her high heels on the cold stone floors. She gripped my hand firmly while we walked through the building. The ritual took place in a large underground room with no light. Candles lit the pentagram on the floor. The faces of other frightened children spooked me. This was a black mass amid Latin chanting and strange laughter. Blood was spilled everywhere while children whimpered in terror.

For days I washed my hands over and over again, because I couldn't get the blood off. After the killing, I remember my family taunting me saying, "God will never forgive you. You are a murderer. You have committed the worst sin. God will never want anything to do with you. You are one of us now." As a tiny little girl, I believed them. It took me weeks to recover from the shock of that memory. Somehow I had gone from being the victim to the perpetrator in a matter of moments. The guilt and self-condemnation was suffocating. "If only I could have died instead..." I thought. I tried telling myself that it wasn't my fault, but that was little consolation. "They made me do it," I reasoned. But words didn't ease my pain. Henry tried to reassure

In these last days it is critical that SRA survivors find their hope and healing in Christ. The programming must be broken to proclaim liberty to the captives and the opening of the prison to those who are bound (Isaiah 61:1). To this end I have dedicated my life. And they overcame him by the blood of the Lamb and by the word of their testimony, and they did not love their lives to the death. (Revelation 12:11)

I have a passion to see Christians set free from bondage. I have met so many that are miserable like I was years ago. I am an example of the healing and delivering power of Jesus. I have been set free from depression, and I am now leading a life filled with joy and the peace of God. If you are a believer in the Lord Jesus Christ, and you can't understand why your life resembles the curses of Deuteronomy 28 rather than the blessings, then I believe that this book may help! The following recounts my remarkable journey, including a life-threatening attack by a group of Satan's followers.

We also noticed certain individuals in my town that were wearing black uniforms at certain times. One of these individuals was a young man that I had known since he was a child. He was one of the most courteous young men that I had ever known. One day, he was wearing a black uniform and was escorting a man in handcuffs into our city hall that was screaming that he couldn't feel his hands (I was unaware of any connection that he had with the law enforcement in our town). I was in front of our church across the street. He turned and stared at me with an intent look of hatred on his face; it really startled me. He was accompanied by another older man that I knew dressed in the same black uniform. We later understood what these uniforms represented when we read Russ Dizdar's book, The Black Awakening.¹ This book also gave us insight concerning a young woman that attended a couple of our church

God rules over all, controls all, and uses all for His glory and our good. With such a God who providentially controls all things and cares for us, we have nothing to fear.

C. THE PROMISE OF GOD When we have done all to stand, we shall stand; for God is able to make us stand (Ephesians 6:10–11, 13). His promise is clear: “Submit therefore to God. Resist the devil and he will flee from you” (James 4:7). When we have resisted him in the faith, standing firm in Christ, he must flee. It is the promise of God.

D. PRINCIPLES FOR THE BATTLE There are some very practical attitudes and actions to develop in spiritual warfare. Here are some that have been found to be effective. Develop a good concept of God. He is great and good and intervenes for those who trust and obey. Develop a healthy, biblically based self-esteem. We are procreated in the image of God. That gives us intrinsic, unchanging worth. The Son of God did not make worthless people or buy worthless people with His precious blood. His purchase proved our worth, though in ourselves we are completely without any merit. Our bodies are the temple of the Living God, and that grants us great dignity. Develop a strong doctrinal foundation for life in all its aspects. We live and grow by the Word of God (1 Peter 1:22–2:3). The specific truths of Scripture are the sword that the Spirit provided for us to attack the lies of the enemy (Ephesians 6:17). Develop a strong devotional life. Daily worship, reading of Scripture, and daily prayer are elements that enhance our obedience and growth. Warfare praying is an essential part of gaining victory in spiritual warfare (Ephesians 6:18). Develop discernment between good and evil. This means becoming aware of the trickery of the enemy. We test all forms of philosophy, religion, and practice by the truth in Christ (2 Corinthians 10:3–5). We must also discern between what is good and what is best. We can be easily distracted by attractive things, social and spiritual. Our love for Christ and His cause will help us to differentiate and follow the best (Philippians 1:9–11). Develop control of thoughts and emotions. We can choose to think on the proper and the holy (Philippians 4:8). We are not subject to everything that enters our mind or tingles our emotions. We are to set our minds on the things of Christ (Colossians 3:1–3). Develop Christian love and fellowship. We do not live as islands. We are members of one another and responsible to help and be helped by one another (1 Corinthians 12–13). We must provide an accepting climate for those who are hurting in the battle, for those who are longing for freedom from the enemy's attacks. We are to accept one another to the glory of Christ (Romans 15:5–7). Develop a genuine hatred of evil. Though we are not to hate our enemies, we are instructed to hate evil (Psalm 97:10; 1 Peter 3:10; 1 John 2:15–17). We are to be hard on sin in our own lives, just as the Lord said in the Sermon on the Mount (Matthew 5:27–

It is a disciplined soldier who stands in the battle and wins the well-fought day. SUMMARY If we are to have the victory that is rightfully and certainly ours in Christ, we must remember Satan's power and schemes. We must recall that Christ is our Victor and that we are victors in Him. God may allow Satan some action, but He guards His own. We must resist the devil in allegiance to God, in the armor He provides, and in actions that leave no opportunity for his success. In the final analysis, we can and must rely upon God's authority, control, and promise of victory.

“I became dead, and behold, I am alive unto the ages of the ages” (Rev. 1:18, mar.). “Fear not, John, remember Calvary. You saw Me there. You beheld My passion there. You gazed upon the marred face, and the smitten form. You saw the hour and power of darkness working through the creatures of My hands. You saw Me in My resurrection body, and conversed with Me after My rising from the dead. But now, behold Me as I am in the glory which I had with the Father before the world was; and know that I who became dead for your sake am now alive forevermore, and have the keys to death and the grave. Through death I have brought to nought him who had the power of death. O death, where is your victory? O death, where is your sting?” Why did the Lord of glory thus appear to John? He who had sent the Holy Spirit to lead His redeemed ones into all the truth now sends to them the call from heaven to overcome! No message is sent to the unbelieving world, for God had already spoken by His Son, and given the full manifestation of His love to sinners in His death on Calvary. But an after-message comes from the Glorified Lord in heaven to His own people. He had watched them in all their various circumstances and noted their trials and temptations. He had walked in their midst, and seen the Holy Spirit grieved and oft-times quenched—the still small voice unheeded, the warning touch unnoticed, the restraining providence unknown. He had observed the active service and the decline of deep personal love to Him. He had noted with tenderness the tribulation and poverty of some and the dwelling even “where Satan’s throne is” (Rev. 2:13) of others. He who had conquered Satan at Calvary had watched the “deep things of Satan” (2:24) being taught to His servants—some with a reputation of being alive, yet actually dead before Him, and others lukewarm and self-satisfied. Yes, He had watched it all, and once more spoke from heaven to awaken His people, to bid them overcome. His chosen vessel is drawn aside to wait before Him. The cloud which received Him out
